Experience

Since I am at the onset of my development journey, the core focus has been on establishing the foundation. I have been religiously learning HTML for marking up structure, CSS for styling, and the basic concept of JavaScript for bringing out the interactivity. I am also getting acquainted with Java to learn fundamental programming concepts.

Thus, though I have not attempted a complete project, my subsequent assignment is the construction of a personal portfolio website on which these skills can be put into practice.

I have immense interest in this area and I believe that I will be quick to learn. I am seeking the opportunity where it will be possible to add my background skills and develop quickly within the working environment.
